

CHSAA Corporate Partners

Making a Difference

The objectives of the Colorado High School Activities Association are to provide meaningful participatory experiences for students; to promote student-centered activities; and to provide leadership to the CHSAA's 338 member public and private high schools in the activities arena.

"High school athletics and activities continue to be an integral part of every community. The involvement of local and statewide businesses as corporate sponsors shows not only support for the students participating, but also provide needed resources to keep these programs operating at an appropriate level. Corporate involvement in these activities is a win-win situation. The students have the resources for an important part of their education and the corporations are providing support for the children of their neighbors, employees and communities." CHSAA Commissioner Bill Reader said.

"The CHSAA works diligently to partner with corporations who's marketing initiatives mirror membership core values, Excellence, Education, Team Leadership Character Building, Sportsmanship and Equitable Opportunities."

Wilson Sporting Goods, one of the nation's largest sporting goods manufacturers, provides all the balls for the CHSAA's state championships, in addition to providing a financial subsidy to support the Association's efforts in the activities arena.

Farmers Insurance has partnered with the CHSAA to recognize student participants making a difference with "Farmers Most Valuable Participants" of the month program. Winners are eligible to win the end of season monetary scholarship to the school of their choice. Selected winners will be featured on promotional sports with FSN Rocky Mountain. Your Farmers agents are there to help you get back where you belong.
